ATTEMPT TO BLOCK THE LIBERAL CONVENTION FAILS LIBERAL NOMINATION WILL BE MADE AT CONVENTION TODAY

Delegates from All Parts of the Constituency Gather to Take Part—Number of Important Resolutions Will Probably Be Adopted

Notwithstanding all the attempts of the hand-picked association to delude the liberals of the Edmonton district with the belief that the convention of this afternoon is not properly authorized, the convention goes into session with one of the most representative gatherings of liberals ever held in the city of Edmonton. Practically every polling subdivision which lay within reach during the short time since the call has sent delegates, and from districts such as Wabamun, Lac Ste. Anne and Morinville, which places the Oliver gang have been busy reporting as rejecting the call, have sent complete delegations.

In the city the organization for the convention was completed last night. In the west end, with the exception of polling subdivision No. 25, all primaries had been held previous to last night. At No. 25 the delegates were appointed last night and at all the east end and Norwood districts with one or two exceptions delegates were selected. In the case of the exceptions, meetings were held this morning at which the delegates were appointed. As the doors to the convention room in the separate school hall open at 2:30 this afternoon every district in the city is represented by delegates chosen in open meeting and almost every rural polling subdivision from which it was possible for delegates to come is represented.

This afternoon's convention will be a full, free and unobstructed expression of the liberal spirit of the district is now absolutely assured, and the candidate nominated will go into the field as the recommendation of a gathering as representative as any that has ever been assembled in this province.

In the business of the afternoon it is certain that some very important resolutions will be adopted. Besides the usual declaration of loyalty to the liberal leader and the liberal policies, it is more than likely that there will be declaration of some kind calling on the Dominion government for a more aggressive policy of railway development. The result will be a resolution dealing with the lapse of the minister of the interior in allowing himself to remain under a cloud of suspicion, which he must clear up by a simple explanation, if he is in a position to do so, or what he represents to be a plain business transaction.

The convention this afternoon will bring to a close the first and most interesting drama of politics, an act in which the Oliver gang has been absolutely unscrupulous. The result, however, is only one more link in the chain of events which will lead to the final triumph of the liberal executive for the district. One of

BRITAIN IS THREATENED WITH GENERAL STRIKE

Railway Employees Give Magnates 24 Hours in Which to Agree to Arbitration—Refusal Means Tie-Up of All Roads—Riots in Liverpool—Two Killed

Gorman, Clancey & Grindley at noon today received a wire from their London agents to the effect that the railway strike in England is over. The wire gave no details. It was in connection with a big auto truck which the Edmonton firm is supplying a Calgary house, and the strike had bearing upon the delivery.

(Canadian Associated Press)

London, August 16.—An index to the extreme gravity of the labor upheaval throughout the country may be found in the unusual measures that have been taken by the government to meet an unusual situation. Conferences were held today in the office of the Prime Minister and the Premier was able to secure the views of some of the most influential representatives of the big industries and all the important heads of trades unions.

During the afternoon there was also a conference at the house of trade between the strike committee and a committee of the board of trade.

That intervention by the government with a view to abolishing conditions has not come a moment too soon is to be seen in the fact that the amalgamated society of railway employees in 1907, decided to call a general railway strike throughout the country and gave notice of 24 hours in which to decide whether they were willing to meet the men who had organized their grievances.

This is the first of the men to the decision reached by the railway magnates. Monday night to refuse all concessions to their employees. The situation has become so serious that already there is talk of parliament prolonging its session in order to pass special legislation dealing with industrial problems. The temper of the railway employees and managers is rising and great fear will be required to secure a settlement. King George is looking keenly into the situation.

Troops Fire on Rioters. Another strike affair in which the troops again were compelled to fire, took place in London last night. Only a few persons were wounded in each case before the troops were ordered to fire many of their number had been fired upon by rioters. The rioters were fired upon by rioters. The rioters were fired upon by rioters.

Stopping here is becoming completely paralyzed. The strike in London, which arrived today from New York, has been unable to do so, owing to the strike of the dock-hand men, and it is doubtful if she will be able to coal in its own needs.

Condition of the men of the London and North-western railway and of the Great Western railway have been on strike here.

Freight Men Out. Chester, Aug. 16.—A limited freight men of the London and North-western railway and of the Great Western railway have been on strike here.

Steamer Held Up. Liverpool, Aug. 16.—The sailing of the C. P. R. ship Lake Champlain is indefinitely postponed. The Canadian mail steamer is held up by the strike of the dock-hand men, and it is doubtful if she will be able to coal in its own needs.

Strathcona Council Fails To Appoint New Assessor

Two Applicants for Position and Aldermen Fail to Reach Decision After Long Debate—Number Are in Favor of Promoting Civic Employees

Strathcona, Aug. 16.—A hopeless deadlock resulted in the council last evening when the members split over the question of selecting a new assessor. The position recently made vacant by the resignation of Mr. J. D. Foster, the finance committee brought in a majority report recommending that the application of Mr. J. J. Fairweather be accepted, the salary to be $1,000 per year. The report was seconded by Ald. Pollard, chairman and Ald. Lawson. Following the motion made for the adoption of Ald. Calder as the other member of the committee rose in protest to the recommendation and explained why he could not agree with the other members on the question. He believed in the policy of advancing the employees of the city whenever opportunity offered, and since there was an application on hand from the assistant to

LARGE NUMBER TAKE OUT NATURALIZATION PAPERS

Conservative Organizers Busily Engaged in Securing Documents for Foreigners Which Will Entitle Them to Vote at Coming General Elections

With the near approach of the federal elections, organizers of both political parties are conducting a vigorous canvass among the foreign settlers, and securing the naturalization papers which entitle their supporters to the franchise. No fewer than fifty naturalization papers have just been posted in the office of the supreme court. They will remain there for the next couple of weeks, and if not protested within that period the foreign born citizens, who have sworn allegiance to the British crown, will be qualified to vote in the forthcoming elections.

The majority of the names are of citizens resident in the country districts and the signatures of the range of P. A. Morrison, Conservative candidate in the Victoria constituency and other Conservative organizers on the papers indicates that an exhaustive canvass has been carried on by the Conservative party in this constituency. N. Menasse is the only Edmonton citizen who has become naturalized, but a number of Strathcona names are included in the list, which is given below:

Formal Orders in Spokane Case Issued by Commerce Commission

(Western Associated Press)

Washington, Aug. 16.—Formal orders in the Pacific coast freight rate cases, supplementing the decisions rendered two weeks ago, were issued by the interstate commerce commission.

Material reductions in both class and commodity freight rates are made from Atlantic coast points of origin to interlocking mountain cities, Spokane, Reno, Phoenix and others similarly situated, although the carriers are permitted on account of water competition to exact rates somewhat less to Pacific coast terminals than to the intermediate points.

The orders issued define explicitly the rates indicated in the opinions as reasonable and request the carriers engaged in transcontinental traffic to establish the rates fixed by the commission on November 15, 1941.

W. F. Puffer, M.P.P. of Lacanoe, came into the city this morning. He spent an hour at the government buildings in consultation with Premier Sifton.

Claims Judges Are Not Living Up to the Rules

Prizes Awarded to Horses Which Were Basis of Lawsuits—Alleged that Registration Papers Were Not Produced as Prescribed in Regulations

Edward Evans, of 227 Elizabeth street, who will be remembered by many Edmontonians as the defendant in an action which came before Judge Harvey in the supreme court last November, when Elizabeth Catharine Evans sued for the recovery of two horses in his possession and won the case, and later as the applicant before the supreme court on habeas in an unsuccessful effort to have Judge Harvey's finding reversed, claims that he are not living up to the rules and regulations set forth in the prize list.

Mr. Evans bases his contention on No. 2 of the general regulations governing the horse entries, which states that all animals "entitled for prizes" shall enter in the names of their bona fide owners. He maintains that this rule was violated yesterday when the judges awarded prizes to horses exhibited by Elizabeth Catharine Evans, the plaintiff in the action of last November and the respondent in the subsequent appeal. The horses are the ones that were the basis of the lawsuit and although Elizabeth Evans has gained possession of them in the Alberta courts, Mr. Evans claims that she is not yet the bona fide owner of the animals, because he is going to appeal the case before the supreme court of Canada next October.

The case dates back to 1947, when, according to Mr. Evans' version of it, he obtained possession of two mares, "Lady Catherine" and a bay mare, "Bessie," in an interpleader action in the Bitterhead county court, England. His son, Edward Evans, said to him that about that time with his wife, who is Elizabeth Catharine Evans, plaintiff in the action in the Alberta supreme court, Mr. Evans' son, said the bay mare, Bessie, and in April, 1940, he came to Canada bringing with him

"Lady Catherine" and four other foals, took them out to his son's place far from time to time, and during the summer of 1940 he took two of them back to his own place in town. In February of 1941 a writ was issued by his daughter-in-law, Elizabeth Catharine Evans, in a suit to recover these two animals. The others which he brought with him from England were at that time on the premises of his son.

The result of the action in the supreme court of Alberta was that the plaintiff recovered the horse and established ownership of the others and an appeal of the case was dismissed before the supreme court en banc. When the case is taken before the supreme court of the Dominion, Mr. Evans will not only sue for the five horses which he brought from England, but also for a calf, foaled by Lady Catherine after being brought to Canada.

It was claimed by Elizabeth Evans in her evidence in the Alberta courts that when she and her husband left England the horses were left in the care of her father-in-law and were not sold to him. Edward Evans, senior, claims that he bought the horses so that his son, might have sufficient funds to pay the costs of a legal action and get out of the country.

Good ventilation is the first essential in the purity of the home.

OLIVER GETS THE SHOE
ONTO THE WRONG FOOT

When on the second of May Frank Oliver rose in his place in the house of commons to answer to a charge implied by a photograph of his bank account as published in the Toronto Telegram on April 27 he told the house that the amounts of $50,000 and $19,350 shown in his credit were not the result of any official acts of his, and he made a statement which was intended to make the house believe that he was willing that his affairs be investigated.

Through a subsequent chain of events which terminated in the dissolution of the house, the investigation was not made. It is now nearly four months since the photograph of Oliver's bank account was published, and yet Oliver has given no statement of where the money came from. But without having made this explanation Oliver is again before the electors seeking their votes and representing that he is willing that his whole case be investigated.

Oliver has never disputed that the amounts represented in the photograph were actually in his credit in the bank. He has never disputed that he got possession of the money from some source. But he asks the electors to continue confidence in him by re-electing him without his making any explanation as to what that source was.

In making this demand on the credulity of the electors Oliver is getting the shoe on the wrong foot. It is not up to the electors to accept without explanation the circumstance that such large and mysterious sums appear to the credit of a minister of the crown in his private bank account. But it most decidedly is up to the minister to satisfy the electors that the mysterious amounts were come by honestly.

The feature that makes Oliver's position absolutely untenable is the circumstance that Oliver could, if he would, make an explanation in five minutes which would show where the money came from. If the amounts to his credit were honestly come from, there is no reason why he should not take the electors into his confidence. If he refuses to take the electors into his confidence he thereby relinquishes whatever claim he may have held to the indulgence of the electors.

BYE-ELECTIONS WILL FURNISH ESTIMATE OF GOVERNMENT'S POPULARITY

One of the unlooked-for results of the present federal elections in the province of Alberta will be the opening of a whole group of provincial constituencies by the entry of the members into the federal arena.

Already four members of the legislature have announced their candidature. Messrs. Buchanan, Warnock, Rutherford and Bennett having decided to run. Of these the first three have an excellent chance to win, thereby leaving their seats open, and of the fourth, Bennett, almost anything might be expected.

Along with these four seats there is still the seat in Gleichen to fill, making five bye-elections which will have to be held immediately after the federal elections.

With the government's present majority the result, even if it went against the government in all the constituencies, could not impair the Sifton government's hold on the reins of power. But so many bye-elections coming at one time will give a very clear estimate of the standing of the government in the minds of the electors of the province.

CITIZENS SHOULD BE GIVEN
OPPORTUNITY TO VOTE FOR GAS

Almost before the ballots defeating the attempt to give away the gas franchise are counted the Bulletin and the Journal are out at it again asking that the agreement between the city and Cyrus S. Eaton be re-submitted to the ratepayers, hoping thereby to get through the agreement on a short vote.

Any such attempt should be dismissed without consideration, no matter what petitions are submitted in support of it.

The vote by which the gas franchise proposal was disposed of was as representative a vote as it is likely will ever be secured in the city. More voters came to the polls than at the last general municipal election and practically everyone who takes a lively interest in municipal affairs registered an opinion as to the wisdom of giving the franchise away or retaining it in the possession of the city. The franchise hunters are certainly not entitled to another chance to snap a verdict. They have had the opportunity and in the interests of the city the ratepayers should at least be given an opportunity to vote for or against a municipal gas bylaw before any other attempt is made to dispose of the franchise.

The franchise hunters have already been given altogether too generous treatment at the hands of the city. To resubmit the bylaw would be extending indulgences beyond the limit and at the best could but result in delay, as the result would certainly be another defeat of the attempt to give away the franchise.

The duty of the city council in the present instance is plain. The franchise grab having been defeated, it is now up to the council to put a money bylaw at once. If the franchise hunters think they can promote their own interests by so doing they are perfectly at liberty to get out and oppose the bylaw with all the power at their command.

PARTY IS BIGGER THAN ANY ONE MAN

One of the greatest tributes to the strength of the hold of liberalism upon the minds of the people of the Edmonton federal electoral district is the circumstance that with the discredited and dishonored minister of the interior doing everything in his power to spread a doubt about the validity of the actions of the liberal organization in calling a convention, and with the figure-head chairman of the provincial executive aiding and abetting the minister in every manner within his power, the liberal convention comes off today just the same, with representatives from almost every part of the riding and with the true liberal spirit strong and predominant.

The fact which the discredited minister fails to have grasped is that the liberal party is bigger than any one man; that his devious methods cannot be made a part of the affairs of the party; that unless he conducts his own affairs in a manner creditable alike to himself and the party, the party will drop him and go right along.

A Gasoline Experience

By Winifred Black

A woman out in Kansas City who came cleaning to do the other day, set me the case of a gas can and a clean rag and went to work.

She took her children into the kitchen with her, and she let them watch her clean. I suppose she thought it would teach them industry.

When she had cleaned quite enough, she thought she saw if all the case-line was quite dried off the furniture she had been cleaning, and so she lit a match and tried it.

The gasoline was not all dried, just the top, and she lit it and it caught fire and burned her and her two little children to death.

And the woman's husband cried bitterly, and the playmates of the little girls all came to the funeral and brought wreaths of flowers and flowers, and it was all quite affecting.

The very day after this dreadful thing happened I met a woman I knew, and she told me she was having a queer time with her husband.

"He is so jealous," she said, "and wants me to tell him every single thing I do, and every human being I speak to, I have just been spending the day with an old schoolmate. He won't let me think I've been talking with some one, and I don't tell him the truth. It's fun to see him get so mad about nothing."

Looking the matter to see if the gasoline was drying enough, she lit a match and tried it.

How many people do you know who do just this sort of thing right straight ahead? And then wonder when the gasoline explodes and burns them and their little helpless children to death.

There's the woman who speaks with other people's money—so easy, so pleasant he finds it. Flash!—there's the explosion. Strange he is never ready for it when it comes.

There's the man who tells his about his friends; little, harmless bits at first, and then bigger ones and nearer ones and nearer ones.

Where's the hiding woman? Over there in the corner—I don't believe she'll ever tell him again; poor little, silly thing.

The meddlesome Matie who is always so ready to advise, to admonish, to correct, to counsel, to nag, to scold. She really should not have held that match so close, should she?

Explosions do get on the nerves so fearfully.

Lives of Great Men

By Miles Overholt

When Noah loaded up his boat and named his hired hands, He didn't point his compass for the bright and happy lands; He merely drifted with the tide and let the lions roar, And when the ark went on the beach he knew he'd struck the shore, Methuselah, when but a child of seven hundred years, Would never grow or nurse a growth or baste himself in tears; He just let Nature take her course and never lived himself to death!

The pedant of the foreals would go out to meet the foe With a business-like apparatus, never thinking of the foe; They took the count without a howl and let the matter drop; They flinched when their breath was gone like still was time to stop.

When Barum launched his greatest show he owned a crippled bear, And a miter-carat diamond, both guaranteed to wear; And then he advertised the show, mislaid the entrance door, And people gave him all their cash and tried to borrow more. The men who make three-lugars are of fifty-seven kinds, They're of fifty-seven styles and grades and fifty-seven minds; But they ride in their own wagons, though the road be rough and hard, And they softly sneak upon success and tie it in the yard.

HOME AGAIN

We are glad vacation's ended, Are we not? We are not. Are we not? We are not. Is it not? It is not. Joy in every heart is lurking, And the thrush we'll soon be working, And we'll labor without shirking, Will we not? We will not. We are paid for enjoyment, Are we not? We are not. And we welcome re-employment, Do we not? We do not. For no matter where we went, We have surely had a plenty Of this "dolor faciente." Have we not? We have not. We were tired of ocean's routine, Were we not? We were not. And the country life was boring, Was it not? It was not. Mountain air drove us to madness, Did we not? We will not.
